

Imagine if every student in your district were affirmed, engaged and supported in reaching their greatest postsecondary ambitions.

School counselors can play a critical role in ensuring that students get opportunities to have safe, enriching experiences in and out of school, and in helping prepare students for postsecondary success. Yet, the average counselor to student ratio is 464:1 which translates to an average of 38 minutes of advising for high school seniors in low-income communities.

38 minutes is simply not enough.

A Proven Model

Since 2007, OneGoal has partnered with schools across the country to ensure college and career planning, preparation, and support are not extracurricular luxuries but integral components of the high school experience. OneGoal is a teacher-led, credit-bearing elective class in students' junior and senior years of high school. Our curriculum is grounded in culturally responsive pedagogy and consists of rigorous lessons covering self-discovery, social-emotional learning, test preparation, and college/career planning. Students identify their own visions of success, build the mindsets and resilience they'll need to navigate and challenge inequitable systems after high school, and find and successfully embark on their postsecondary path. The program continues through their first year of college or workforce pathway. 88% of our program high school graduates enroll in a postsecondary institution and 79% of those who enroll persist one year after their high school graduation.

Transforming to Meet District Demand

OneGoal's new District Partnership Pilot is a systemwide solution that integrates our model into the fabric of entire school districts, from district goals and master schedules to teacher training and school culture. Through this initiative, we can ensure every student graduates from high school prepared for their chosen postsecondary pathway and continues to receive critical support as they navigate their first year of college, postsecondary institution, or workforce.
